Who we are

RxCeutical started business in 2007 with the vision of starting a dynamic pharmaceutical sales, distribution, and marketing company. Today, selling to more than 150 pharmacies, our vision is now a reality.

As consumers have learned to trust their local pharmacist, pharmacists have learned to trust RxCeutical with their purchasing needs. At RxCeutical we know "superior quality + lower price" is what customers are looking for at the end of the day.

RxCeutical sells pharmaceutical products at reduced prices to pharmacies across the United States. Our mission is becoming a quality pharmaceutical supplier. Every day we work hard to fulfill these responsibilities of being a part of the American Healthcare System. This day in age, a premier wholesale distributor must offer more than a high level of service. We understand that great pricing and service must go hand in hand.

By sustaining close relationships with our manufacturing partners and reacting rapidly to the ever changing market conditions, RxCeutical stays ahead of the competition. This ensures our customer base the most competitive pricing each and every day!

Who should apply

RxCeutical hires full-time sales positions who have met the following minimum requirements

- Degree/Development towards a Bachelors/Masters degree in an academic program related to sales
- Relevant coursework and/or projects
- Previous sales experience preferred, but not required
- Strong leadership and communication skills
- Process and results orientation

Our Program

- Directs field sales and service strategy for pharmaceutical packaging within a specified geographical territory.
- Increases sales and customer satisfaction through a varied sales approach which includes cold-calling, relationship building, and account management
- Create and execute short/long term plans to attain annual sales and gross profit dollar goals by building on current accounts and identifying and entertaining new opportunities for growth.

As an account manager you will work with RxCeutical owners, as well as our business partners, customers and vendors. Your knowledge base will begin on the first day, working on meaningful and exciting projects. Opportunities are available across the country.

Opportunities

Exposure like no other. While we do hire employees year-round for a variety of opportunities, we regularly offer commission-based account manager positions in sales.
